Safety Planning with Victim-Survivors

Expanding the MARAM Safety Planning Templates
A Resource for Practitioners

www.gippslandfamilyviolencealliance.com.au

What is Safety Planning?

- Safety planning is thinking about practical actions a victim survivor (and/or services) can take to be safer when living with family violence.
- The process looks at the current situation and assesses what steps and strategies can be put in place to mitigate risk.
- A safety plan must be current, relevant, adaptable and kept up-to-date in response to change in circumstances.
- It is important that safety planning is discussed in a way that does not make the victim survivor feel that family violence risk or its impacts are their fault.
- A safety plan may be developed by professionals who have undertaken an intermediate risk assessment, or in collaboration with, or by, a specialist family violence service. If a specialist family violence service is not involved, you must develop a safety plan with the victim survivor.
- Where family violence risk has been identified, all victim survivors, including children and young people, benefit from having a safety plan. This supports them to know what to do if risk changes or escalates.

When to do Safety Planning

Safety planning should be undertaken:

- Where any level of risk is present, noting that the safety plan will differ depending on the level of risk identified.
- In collaboration with the adult victim survivor, including in the development, implementation and monitoring of the plan. It may be appropriate to work with a young person to develop their own personal safety plan.
- With the adult victim survivor to develop separate safety plans for each child or young person (if not being done separately), and to reflect these plans in the adult victim survivor's plan, if appropriate.

The Multi-Agency Risk Assessment and Management (MARAM) Framework and Safety Planning

The MARAM Framework provides us with a template for Safety Planning for those who hold Intermediate Responsibility and those who hold Comprehensive Responsibility.

You can download the Intermediate template here

You can download the Comprehensive template here

These templates are likely to be in your relevant Client Record Management program for your use.

We have created this guide to assist practitioners, particularly new practitioners to build upon the questions in the MARAM to create safety plans that are unique to the individuals.
